SCOUTING: Players

Adam Szudi

LMC Student

Country	Hungary
Overall	Played under his current level, his performance was slightly disappointing. Despite showing improvements in the main areas he was slow in his mind, could not bring his A game. If he can´t do that he has not the level to compete against good players. Overall not good enough to do something that catches the eye, however he was the only Hungarian player who played in all events having good chances and playing well in doubles and mixed doubles.
Interesting results	Nuytinck (BEL) 1:4, Weber (SUI) 4:3, Freitas (POR) 0:4
Sweeping changes	Mixed of emotions and thoughts about him. We need to understand that he has only started the professional way some time ago having good potential but less base. Therefore to come up with good results and performance he must give all, have his peak game unless he is left with limited resources and weapons to win. His base has grown, his table tennis level improved but lacked of sharpness and real spirit to compete.
Areas to improve	It seems that his understanding and intelligence is high, in addition he has done good steps everywhere, but after some more months his evolution needs to be evaluated. Despite starting to work with him deeper and deeper about his mentality he shows resilience in being ready to enter in the `red` zones. Need to wait and see than reaction from our side is awaited concerning entering in his mind. It is all down to his readiness to make REAL efforts mentally!
