Overall

Played the best tournament of his career so far. First of all we just need to say: very well done!!! Played a high level of table tennis, maintained his level in singles and doubles (got 2nd with Gorak) throughout the event, dominated with his technical skills, speed and passion. Very vital point to note is that: he was ready to win against Ovtcharov! It was a big step for him as for now he can compete with all the top players. His service game (which is a crucial area for him) was active and full of variation, his backhand was excellent and his mentality was great not mentioning his readiness in his fitness regarding endurance, power and stability.

Interesting results

Ovtcharov (GER) 4:2, Monteiro (POR) 4:1, Kou (UKR) 4:1

Sweeping changes

We have know that he is on the right way of improvement as he has grown in all areas, but the important thing was that his self-confidence and belief arrived to another level. Moreover he showed great way of consistency producing good level at every game. This result and his level of table tennis come from a hard work that he has been doing for a while now. An area to be pointed out is: mentality! He has been doing plenty of effort in improving the identified areas, this is and will be the key for his success.

Areas to improve

He is still a young player who is on his way of development, we need to keep this in mind. He can have some ups and downs still but the main idea to keep him on the right track. Building his self-confidence and belief remain the key parts of the work. In his table tennis the goal is to make his strong points (above the table, backhand) even stronger and continue to work smoothly on the weaker areas such as passive game or service.
